Washington, DC – On Monday, Rep. Ben Ray Luján will hold a Job Seekers Resource Fair in Santa Fe where he will bring together a variety of experts to provide instruction for those who are job hunting or interested in becoming entrepreneurs. Experts providing instruction during the fair will include Gretchen Kuehn (Department of Workforce Solutions), Stacy Sacco (WESST, a nonprofit organization providing quality entrepreneurial services throughout the state of New Mexico), Randy Grissom, (the Sustainable Technologies Center at Santa Fe Community College), and Mike Mykris (Santa Fe Small Business Development Center).

The Job Seekers Resource Fair is intended to provide New Mexicans access to HR managers, trainers, and other career professionals who can help them focus their job search and application strategies to increase the likelihood of finding employment in these tough economic times. Professionals will be on site to provide one-on-one resume review, interview coaching, and job search strategies.
